Can solar PV help China's poorest?

A review of photovoltaic poverty alleviation projects in China: current status, challenge and policy recommendations. Renew. Sustain. Energy Rev. 94, 214–223 (2018). Murray, S. F. Solar PV can help China's poorest.

Does local demand-pull policy induce solar PV balance-of-system technology innovation?

Gao and Rai (2019) found that local demand-pull policy induces solar PV balance-of-system technology innovation in China. Lin and Luan (2020) showed that government subsidy policy made a positive impact on the technology innovation.

Can solar photovoltaic projects help alleviate poverty in rural areas?

Nature Communications 11, Article number: 1969 (2020) Cite this article Since 2013, China has implemented a large-scale initiative to systematically deploy solar photovoltaic (PV) projects to alleviate poverty in rural areas.

Can advancing photovoltaic technologies counteract global solar potential?

Communications Earth & Environment 5, Article number: 586 (2024) Cite this article Future changes in solar radiation and rising temperatures will likely reduce global solar photovoltaic potential, but advancing photovoltaic technologies could counteract these effects.

Does community management influence household adoption of rooftop solar photovoltaics in rural China?

This paper examines inequality in household adoption of rooftop solar photovoltaics in rural China through a qualitative study of three villages. The Chinese government promotes distributed solar to drive low-carbon development. However, community management and China's institutional system influence unequal access.

How much land area is needed for PV energy production in 2085?

Meeting global energy demand from PV in 2085 (2071–2100) under the SSP-RCP scenarios would require 0.7–1.5% (conventional Si) of the global land area (Fig. 4), which is around 0.2–0.3 percentage points more than in the absence of climate change (Fig. 1). Fig. 4: Land area required for PV energy production in 2085.
