Can copper wire be used as a solar energy harvester?

The social media video showcases the process of wrapping copper wire around a CD, mimicking the structure of a traditional photovoltaic cell, and highlights potential pitfalls like wire contact and short circuits. This analysis underscores the challenges in utilizing CDs as efficient solar energy harvesters due to their inherent properties.

Can a solar panel be made using copper?

Yes, one simple way to make a cheap solar panel is by using cuprous oxide, an oxidized form of copper. Homemade solar panels/cells make a great DIY project for adults and kids alike. While this is a great experiment to show how a solar panel works, keep in mind that a solar panel made from copper will not produce much power at all. Cut 2 copper sheets.

How does copper wire work on a solar cell?

Copper wire forms the backbone of your solar cell, channeling the captured sunlight into usable electricity. The process involves carefully attaching the copper wire to the shiny back of the CD, creating a visually appealing pattern that maximizes sunlight absorption.

Can solar power be produced through copper wires & CDs?

Captivating solar power through copper wires and CDs is a low-cost means of producing natural energy. The delightful news is that the moment your solar panel is built, all of the energy produced would come from sunlight. But, be reminded that this won't supply sufficient power to run your devices.

How to make a solar cell using copper?

To make a solar cell using copper, you need to expose cupric oxide. Place 2 copper sheets into your container. Bend both pieces to match the curvature of the plastic bottle, ensuring they can fit inside without touching each other.

How do I build a solar panel with a CD?

You can also get some from Amazon here . There are 4 main steps to build your own solar panel with a CD: Attach the insulated wires to a voltmeter or simple device to test it out! Gluing the copper wire to the shiny backside of the CD, so the CD will no longer be functional.
