Overview

Solar panels work through the photovoltaic (PV) effect. When sunlight hits the panels, it creates an electric current that is first used to power electrical systems in your home.

Solar panels work through the photovoltaic (PV) effect. When sunlight hits the panels, it creates an electric current that is first used to power electrical systems in your home.

PV Panels: The 60 photovoltaic (PV) cells typically found in residential panels absorb sunlight and use it to knock electrons loose and get them moving—in other words, to generate electricity.
