Photovoltaic glass panel price trend chart

Overview

Are photovoltaic modules going up in Europe?

In Europe, the price increase for photovoltaic modules is not quite as strong as expected, at least until now. In particular, thin film module prices remained relatively stable, with March showing barely any movement.

Are photovoltaic module prices going down?

The end of photovoltaic module price declines, which became apparent within the last few months, was confirmed by recent investigations. While the average price level was still slightly decreasing at the start of 2013, compared to December 2012, a trend reversal was already visible at the end of January.

Is the European photovoltaics market reviving?

Module price index: The European photovoltaics market has not yet lived up to the expectations many observers had for it after the strong increase in installation figures in November and December 2012. Although there has been an overall revival by comparison to the first quarter of last year, the market has still failed to really take off.

How does the minimum price regulation affect the photovoltaic market?

Module prices: The minimum price regulation paralyzes the European photovoltaic market. The existing EU minimum import prices for Chinese modules and cells are preventing a much-needed downward price adjustment for products of all regions of origin. The prices are still largely stable.

Will a photovoltaic module price increase by 10 cent/WP?

This would lead to a price increase for end products “Made in Europe” by at least 10 Cent/Wp. Read the full entry in the April edition of pv magazine, due out on April 4. The end of photovoltaic module price declines, which became apparent within the last few months, was confirmed by recent investigations.

Are photovoltaic module prices stagnating?

While module prices for so-called non-EU projects, i.e. photovoltaic plants that are being built beyond the control of the EU Commission and its regulations, are once again (or still) located in the lower 40 eurocent range, prices within the European Union are stagnating just above the 50 eurocent mark.
