Photovoltaic panel construction scam case analysis

Overview

Are solar panels a scam?

With that demand comes fierce competition within the solar panel market. Scams, schemes and straight-up fraud abound in the dark underbelly of an otherwise light-filled industry. While there are still many honest and reliable solar panel companies on the market, it can be hard to differentiate the good guys from the rest.

Are rooftop solar panels a scam?

While rooftop solar panels are becoming increasingly ubiquitous in homes throughout the United States, the industry also has a more sinister side: a seemingly widespread problem of fraudulent business practices that has cast a shadow over many solar panel companies.

Is solar panel fraud a global issue?

And while the aforementioned data focuses on the United States, solar panel fraud is a global issue. It is especially prevalent in Canada, where in the city of Calgary alone, the amount of applications for rooftop solar panels "has increased by nearly 600% since 2020," said the CBC.

Why are prosecutors investigating rooftop solar?

Across the country, prosecutors are investigating high-pressure sales tactics and misleading financing arrangements. Some customers say they were victims of fraud and forgery. This threatens rooftop solar's impressive momentum. Now, some solar companies are working to repair the industry's reputation.

Should Sandra Cuenca install solar panels on her roof?

Sandra Cuenca thought she could save money and help the planet by installing solar panels on her roof in the spring of 2022. Instead, she and her husband said they found themselves paying more than $100 a month for solar panels that weren't activated until March - nearly a year after they were first installed.

Are people deceived by solar financing companies?

We don't want people deceived, though," says Adam Welle, a lawyer with the Minnesota Attorney General's Office who is pursuing a case against solar financing companies. Beyond the industry's reputation, real people - many of them already financially vulnerable - have been hurt.
