Solar photovoltaic panels encounter hail

Overview

In most cases, solar panels are tested and certified to withstand a hail of up to 25 mm (one inch) falling at 23 meters per second (approximately 50 miles per hour).

In most cases, solar panels are tested and certified to withstand a hail of up to 25 mm (one inch) falling at 23 meters per second (approximately 50 miles per hour).

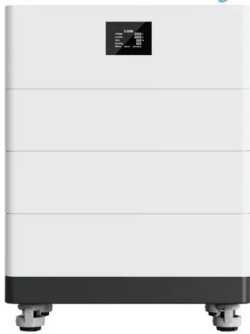

While extremely heavy hail can damage your solar system, modern solar panels typically withstand hail without ill consequences.

Although solar panels are designed to withstand normal weather conditions, including small to medium-sized hailstones, large or very dense hail can cause cracks or break the glass surface of solar .

Solar panels are surprisingly durable. In most storms, they can withstand the weather onslaughts that come. Even hail is usually not enough to damage your solar panels.
