Triple logic of photovoltaic bracket

Overview

Partial shading is an intractable problem that reduces the power generated by the solar system. For the simple reason that it reduces the photovoltaic (PV) array power output, it is characterized.

In T-C-T configuration, when it comes to column rows, all the PV modules are connected in parallel, and the rows are connected in a series. Voltage is distributed to all rows, equivalent to an individual PV module's.

In order to overcome the drawbacks of partial shading, reconfiguration of PV array is performed. The reconfiguration patterns of the conventional and the proposed scheme are.

The power generated by all considered PV systems under uniform shading conditions; the P-V characteristics exhibit only one peak. In contrast, the array creates numerous peaks that vary.
