Overview

When it comes to adding solar panels — otherwise known as photovoltaic (PV) systems — to your roof, most insurance companies see them as part of the structure of your home. That's good news because it means a regular homeowners policy usually has you covered, and you won't need to get special insurance just for your solar panels.

Solar panel insurance: The bottom line. The only way to know if the price of your homeowner's insurance will increase due to the solar panels is to speak with your insurance agent. Discuss your plans with your insurance company before you schedule a consultation for installation.

Solar panel insurance helps protect against physical damage, theft, vandalism, breakdowns or malfunctions, and business interruptions. The cost of insurance for solar panels varies but is generally affordable compared to the investment in solar panels.

It's important to compare different policies and obtain quotes from reputable insurance providers specializing in solar panel insurance. By understanding each policy's specific terms, coverage limits, deductibles, and exclusions, you can make an informed decision that aligns with your unique needs and budget.

Be Sure to Choose Good Panels and a Vetted Installer. The best way to determine if your solar is protected against any form of natural disaster is to talk to your insurance company about your specific plan. In regards to your solar project, Solar.com's Energy Advisors are here to guide you through going solar. Is it necessary to insure solar panels?

If you have leased solar panels, the leasing company may require you to obtain insurance coverage for the system, specifying coverage limits, deductibles, and additional insured parties. When you own solar panels, you have more flexibility in choosing the insurance coverage.

What is a dedicated solar panel insurance policy?

A dedicated solar panel insurance policy is designed to provide comprehensive coverage for your solar panel system. It often offers more extensive protection than what is provided by homeowners insurance.

Are solar panels covered by a separate insurance policy?

Separate insurance policies for solar panels may offer additional benefits, such as coverage for loss of income due to system downtime or the costs associated with temporary replacement power. These added protections could provide financial security in unexpected disruptions to your solar panel system.

Does home insurance cover rooftop solar panels?

Yes, most home insurance policies do cover rooftop solar panels. By installing solar panels you are enabling your house to produce its own electricity. These rooftop solar panels are usually considered a permanent attachment to your property, similar to a patio or a security system and can, therefore, be considered a form of home improvement.

Will solar panels increase my home insurance?

Many insurance providers offer discounts on home insurance costs if you make the house more eco-friendly. Adding solar panels to power your home definitely fits the bill. The only way to know if the price of your homeowner's insurance will increase due to the solar panels is to speak with your insurance agent.

Are solar panels covered by a PPA?

If you subscribe to a PPA or lease your solar panels, a third party owns your system and is responsible for damage and maintenance. In this case, you will not be responsible for ensuring coverage, but you should talk to your lease or PPA provider before committing to make sure that any unforeseen damage will be covered.
